At this stage your baby now see's bright colors & holds his or her head up. I try to create a set that has things in it that catch baby's eye. I might have them lay on their tummy & look up at me to capture their development & beautiful face. I will also prop them up using a prop or baby positioner to get some shots of the adorable outfit they will have on.

Your little one is now sitting up & grasping toys easier. They are much more stable but still tiny enough to fit in baskets & other cute props. Baby's eyes are usually their true color by 6 moths & they can push themselves up so we like to capture them showing off their new talents & beautiful eyes...maybe even their first teeth. Whatever it is that your baby loves to do now we love to document all while getting them to look as adorable as ever.

Your baby is now more mobile then ever at this stage. They may be crawling & even pulling themselves to stand. They can hold onto a toy or object & many other fun new things. As with the other stages we get them doing what they are good at .They may be standing & holding onto an adorable prop or just sitting at flashing those beautiful smiles at us We love to document these stages in their tiny little lives.
